YOUNG BRIDE ENDS LIFE BY POISON

Pretty Girl, Prevented by Police from Jumping Into River, Returns to Apartment and Takes Carbolic Acid.

MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE ON MIRROR IN ROOM.

Told Landlady She Had Been Married June 3, but Never Lived with Her Husband-Said Parents Lived in Buffalo.

Mystery and romance are involved in the death of May Schramm, a pretty young woman of twenty-one, who com mitted suicide by taking carbolic acid in her rooms at No. 232 East Fourteenth street. She had previously made an attempt to commit suicide by jumping from a dock at the foot of East Third street, but had been stopped by a

The girl was formerly May Costello and came from Buffalo about four months ago. She had a grandmother somewhere in this city, but her name or whereabouts is not known.

Hanging on the mirror in her room was a framed wedding certificate which showed that she had been married to a John Schramm by Justice of the Peace Bischoff, at West Guttenburg, N. J., on June 3 of this year.

The building in which she lived is a five-story flat house and the flat on the second floor is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Owen Murphy.

Talked Little of Herself.

On July 1 Mrs. Murphy advertised a room for rent, having more than she and her husband needed, and the girl answered the ad. She rented the room and moved in, but had very little to

Her room was decorated profusely with pictures and photographs of actors and actresses, there being many group photographs of companies, but in none of them could her face be distinguished. Many of the photographs were autographed "To May." Mrs. Murphy thought she had been Policeman Wagner summoned an ambulance from Bellevue and Dr. Richards responded. When Wagner and Mrs. Murphy returned to the flat there were about twelve women in it. Mrs. Murphy thought of her pocketbook, which had contained 24 and which she had left on the table. It was gone.

The women were driven out and the physician worked over the girl, who was unconscious. She was removed to the hospital and died there two hours later.

The girl returned home early last evening and seemed depressed. Two young men had been paying attention to her since she lived there, and the landlady thought that she was blue because of her marriage and bechaps because it barred her from marrying one of her two persistent and attentive callers.

Some time after her return home the girl told Mrs. Murphy that she had tried to commit suicide duing the afternoon by jumping from a dock at the foot of the stretcher carriers, happened to walk through a hallway which leads from the dispensary to the kitchen. In the suicide was about thirty years from the dispensary one of them, the door one at the hotel had ever seen him before.

The girl retired, and several hours later Mrs. Murphy heard groans coming from the bathroom. She ran in and found the girl lying on the floor. In the bathtub was a broken two-ounce bottle which had contained carbolic acid.

Mrs. Murphy's husband works nights and was not at home. Dressed only in her nightgown she ran to the street leaves the fugular vein. The wound was dressed and the man was placed in the prison ward.

Hyland pulled out a rasor and made a slash at Kelly, which was narrowly avoided. Kelly then seized both arms of the weakened man and shouled for ald. Other attendants soon arrived and Kelly carried Hyland back to the dispensary. It was found that he had cut his throat from ear to ear, but not deep enough to sever the fugular vein. A suite of rooms on the fourth floor of the Hoffman House was opened today as headquarters of the Democratio tor McCarren in charge. The old rooms on the sixth floor will be retained for the use of Secretary Mason, of the committee.

There was little doing around the headquarters, but everything is ready for activity next week. Tammany then were conspicuous by their absence.

Vanloads of furniture were unloaded into the new National Democratic Headquarters, at Thirty-fourth street Headquarters, at Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue. Among the furnishings were two large safes, upon which Chairman Taggart kept an anxious eye. Harry Hawes, the Democratic boss of St. Louis, who tried to bet Joseph Folk for the nomination for overnor, was at the Hoffman House to-day announcing his intention of going to Esopus. Mr. Hawes says that there is quite a Roosevelt sentiment in Missouri. He wants Judge Parker to go out there and make a few speeches to get the people enthured.

While the Hoboken police were searching to-day for more evidence against Henry Sampson, of No. 204 River street, who was held in Acting Recorder Laverty's court for ninety days to await the action of the Grand Jury, they found a number of love letter from Mamle Comerford, of No. 137 East One Hundred and Twenty-second street. Sampson was charged with have ing burglar's tools and brass knuckles in his possession, and is believed by the police to be the head of a gang of burglars who have been robbing dwellings houses in all localities of Hoboken.

Mamie Comerford is twenty years old and works in a large department store of this city. She has known Sampson for some time, and the two were supposed to have been engaged up to a few months ago, when they quarrelled and Sampson left the home of the girl, vowing that he never would see her again.

Sampson when arrested said his name was Hillen. He told the police that he was a grocery clerk and the reason he carried a jimmy was to open boxes in the grocery store. He explained the possession of brass knuckles by saying that they were given to him by a friend

While being taken to prison Sampson broke away from the police and ran four blocks with a crowd at his heels before he was recaptured. He then put up a fight, but finally was overpowered. Chief of police Hayes, of Hoboken, says he will now be able to break up the gang of burglars that have been such a terror in the residential district. Before Sampson was arrested he was seen by a detective trying four doors in as many houses. When he tried the fifth he was placed under arrest.

As Leopold got to the bottom step the dog spied him, came quietly down the street, and then, without a warning of any kind, leaped on the child and knocked him down.

The boy tried in vain to beat the animal off. The dog seized his cheek between its teeth and tore out a large piece of fiesh. It then bit his arm, and finally got a grip on his side, biting through his clothing.

The screams of the boy attracted the attention of John Kelly, a blacksmkh. of No. 520 East Eightleth street. Kelly is a hammer-thrower of the Pastime Athletic Club and a veteran of the Sixty-ninth Regiment. He seized Boy in Frightful Condition.

Sampson left the home of the girl, vowing that he never would see her again. He was then a clerk in a grocery store in this city. He said he was going away to make his fortune.

"Yes Knew I Love You."

The love letters found bristle with terms of devotion and endearment. In one Mamie addresses him as "My bearing Henry." She prays that he is well and that the world is doing something for him. Another letter reads in yart:

"You know I love you with all my heart and am anxiously awaiting the day when you will make me your wife. Darling Henry, can you not marry me at once? We love each other, and there is nothing to prevent our being united in ow."

In another letter she shows great solicitude about his business, and expresses the hope that he is meeting with sure success in order that he will have sufficient money to provide a home for her when they get married.

Other letters breathe of idelity, truth and confidence on the part of the girl. On Sampson's burcau was a picture of the girl in a handsome goid frame.
